Larry R. Clausen,
President

Dear Members of the Class of 1997,

I extend my congratulations to you on the receipt of your Doctor of Optometry degree. Each of you deserves high recognition for your academic success. Together the class of 1997 will be an important force in shaping the history of the optometric profession.

The College has undergone significant change during your brief tenure, but this change is minor in comparison to the changes in health care delivery, technology, and standards of care that you will encounter in the career upon which you now embark. The New England College of Optometry has given you the skills not only to enter one of the most respected professions in the nation, but also to continue your learning and professional growth in the new millennium. The acquisition of new knowledge is your professional responsibility. It is a challenge that I am confident you will meet time and time again.

The faculty and the entire College community extend their best wishes to you upon your graduation. At the same time, we welcome you as fellow colleagues and pledge our continued support to you in your service and care to the public.

Best wishes for the future,

Larry R. Clausen, O.D., Ed.D.
President

To the Class of 1997:

I would like to express my best wishes as you leave the portals of NEWENCO. You have stimulated and inspired me in performing my duties.

This year will be my last year as Dean of Student Affairs and Admissions. We leave together with the knowledge that students like you are the future of our profession. Together we have tried to learn not only Optometry, but also consideration for our fellow human beings.

I was a small part of your lives. I hope that you will remember me as your friend, and one that wishes only the best for your future.

Dr. Hyman Richard Kamens, O.D., F.A.A.O., D.O.S.

A Dedication to Dr. Kamens

Patty Haller, 1997 Class President

In 1947, the New England College of Optometry acquired one of its greatest assets, Dr. Hyman R. Kamens. It has been our great fortune to have spent our four years interacting with a man who is responsible for preparing NEWENCO for the year 2000 with such class and dignity.

Dr. Kamens graduated from Indiana University and obtained his degree in optometry from the Massachusetts College of Optometry, Magna Cum Laude, in 1947. He joined the staff of the College that year, and has continued to support thousands of students who have come through the doors of NEWENCO.

During his forty-nine years at the College, Dr. Kamens has served in numerous leadership positions. He served as the Director of the Massachusetts College of Optometry Clinic from 1948 - 1965, Dean of the College from 1965 - 1969, Dean of Administration from 1969 - 1975, and Professor of Optometry and Dean of Student Affairs and Admissions from 1975 - 1996. In April of 1975, he was granted the Doctor of Ocular Science Honorary Degree from the Board of Trustees and has also received the Alumni of the Year Award from the College. In July of 1996, Dr. Kamens assumes a new role as Dean of Alumni Relations. In this position, he will work closely with the alumni, where his expertise and extensive knowledge of the alumni can continue to enhance the NEWENCO community.

As Dr. Kamens enters his fiftieth year of service, it is with great love and respect that the Class of 1997 dedicates this yearbook to him. He has touched the lives of generations of optometry students. As we pursue our careers in optometry, we will often reflect on his smiling face and his singing voice in the halls of NEWENCO. His time, service, and dedication to the profession of optometry and our school can never be equaled.

"We are grateful to have been a part of the Class of 1997 into which you accepted us, and are even more grateful for having you as our Dean of Student Affairs. As we look through this yearbook, we will remember that without your fifty years of devotion, the New England College of Optometry would not be the outstanding College community that it is today. Dr. Kamens, we salute your efforts and thank you for helping to make our dreams a reality."

To laugh often and much; to win the respect of intelligent people and the affection of children; to earn the appreciation of honest critics and endure the betrayal of false friends; to appreciate beauty; to find the best in others; to leave the world a bit better, whether by a healthy child, a garden patch, or a redeemed social condition; to know even one life has breathed easier because you have lived. This is to have succeeded.

DORM LIFE

First Day

When we arrived at 418 Beacon Street, we found out they weren't kidding about small rooms. Trying to fit our stuff into what once must have been a closet was frustrating, so it was off to the Hong Kong to relieve some stress. For many of us, that was our first of many T rides...

A Room with a View

Bethany and others on the fourth floor got a head start on Dr. Freddo's Anatomy class, thanks to the strategic view from her window into the MIT frat's bathroom. She told everyone she was going to buy curtains, but we don't recall seeing any.

Study Habits/Habitats

At 4:00 a.m. on the fourth floor, the light in the kitchenette would be burning brightly. Looking through the door, we would see Prag in her favorite study area.

Books and beverages were in hand. At least the kitchenette got used for something!

Night Owls

We soon found that the front room was perfect place for all-nighters, (for those of us who started studying at 5 o'clock the day before the final, anyway.) It had good proximity to the kitchen, and we always had a pot of coffee going!

Critters

The pitter-patter of little feet, the gnawing of little jaws, blue footprints across the kitchen floor, sticky traps being dragged away. They didn't mention this during our interviews and tours...

Canadian-American Relations

World Series Time -- All the dormies would congregate in the front room to watch the Toronto Blue Jays kick some American butt. Oh well, at least they lost the next year. When it came to watching movies, someone never failed to point out those Canadian comedians. And does anyone know the capital of Canada??

Delight of spring melts winter's discontent

By JULIE ROSS

After one of the worst winters in history, Bay Staters with chronic cabin fever were out in force yesterday basking in the warm temperatures and sunny skies.

After a long winter of dining inside, business was booming at outdoor eateries.

"We really experienced an appreciable increase in business," said Ed Daly, manager of Seaside at Faneuil Hall. "It's been a very busy day down here and it's still going on. I think people are taking longer lunch hours and getting out of the office for a good meal."

Some winter-weary folks even hit Revere Beach.

"It's a pretty good crowd out there, a lot of women with babies and people walking, there's a big crowd down at Kelly's, there's even a few sunbathers out there," said Trooper Richard Huber of the State Police station at Revere Beach.

Yesterday's temperatures ranged from 65 to near 70 in the Boston area. The normal temperature for the Boston area March 23 is 48 degrees, according to Michael Henry of Weather Services Corp. in Bedford.

BASIC anatomy and physiology of the eyes were firmly under our belts. Classes which addressed the developmental aspects of vision began in our second year. Studying took up a major portion of our time, especially as boards

Gala Centennial Celebration

1994 marked the 100th anniversary of The New England College of Optometry, for those who may have missed the huge banner hanging from the first floor balcony that year! The final event was the Gala Centennial Celebration held at the Museum of Fine Arts in November. Before the dinner, attendees were able to roam about selected museum galleries which were closed to the public specifically for the Gala.

NEWENCO has come a long way from its beginnings as the Massachusetts College of Optometry on Newbury Street. The college was established by Dr. August Klein. His granddaughter, Cynthia MacDonald, attended the Gala to say a few words on behalf of the Klein family. A great number of faculty and alumni attended, and of course Dr. Kamens knew them all!

Top 10 Things to Avoid in Clinic

adapted from another original list
by Eric Dostal

1. Saying "Oops" for any reason whatsoever.
2. Telling your patient you'll be "right back" when you try to get your preceptor.
3. Gonioscopy sans anesthetic.
4. Tuna on an onion bagel for lunch.
5. Telling your patient that he is, in fact, your very first patient.
6. Getting the award for "Best Tattoo with a Tonometer Tip."
7. Trying to plot the blind spot when both eyes are open.
8. Tuna on a garlic bagel for lunch.
9. Spazzing because EOMs were not FESA.
10. Giving patients the ride of their life in the exam chair.

THE LAST POST-FINALS PARTY!

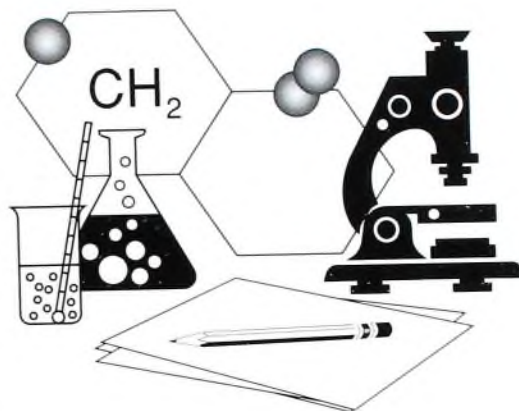

at Crossroads - where else?

The Dr. Zorn Blues

inspired by our finals fiasco

Two times a week we trudge to L1 to sit through 4 hours of dim vs. bright fun.
The computer screen static makes seeing a joke.
Squinting like this, we'll soon be myopes.
We listen to Zorn in his Armani best and pray to Heaven no one has an old test.

The notes fly and fly, and just pass us by.
We sure hope Bethany is feeling real spry!
It's 10 after 10, and we sure need a break.
Oh no, it can't be, she's run out of tape!
If he doesn't stop soon we're all gonna croak
Isn't it time he snuck out for a smoke?

Dim vs. bright, Bright vs. dim
Our knowledge of anisocoria is very slim.
Some pull all nighters and live off of caffeine.
But 98% of students, the exam they have seen.
Dr. Zorn, we really don't mean to be pests,
But please, oh please, write us a new test.

The day of doom comes, and the test we take with silence so thick you'd think it's a wake.
As the scores are posted, there arises a cry
"It can't be...oh no...the average is way too high!"
Dr. Zorn, we'll buy you a brand new cool vest if you promise you won't make us retake this test!

Adie's tonic pupil, or else APD,
Where the lesion is, we just don't see.
In spite of trying to pass while using old tests,
We promise from now on to do only our best.
So in practice when you feel you don't have a clue
Sing the Dr. Zorn Blues to get you through.

HOCKEY

The picture may be old, but the hockey players in our class remained the same from year to year. Some of our classmates are pictured in this rare still photo from 1994-5: Back Row - Steve Udesky, Brent Caswell, Glenn Allouche, Jonathan Arnel, and Bruce Dornn. Front Row - Kerry Moscovitz, Mike Madigan, Dan Levy, and Brian Blake.

BASKETBALL

Okay, so none of the basketball players got together for a group photo. You'll just have to view these action shots and trust that the team consisted of Steve Lobaugh, Scott Pouyat, Ian Jones, Jeff Guild, Tim Jordan, Matt Allen, Matt Forgues, Paul Breault, and James Franks.

Student Council

by Matt Forgues

Student Council was hard at work this year, planning various activities to keep the students entertained. We started off with the Big Brother/Big Sister program where we hoped to get the ODI's into the swing of school. Our first big party was the Halloween bash at the New England Aquarium. This was followed by the terrific Holiday Party put on by the ODI's at the Lenox Hotel, and then the Boston Harbor Boat cruise ended the year.

Student Council not only worked to entertain students, but got involved in all areas of the school. In addition to planning the parties, the council met twice a month to discuss student issues and concerns and manage budget issues. Members worked well with faculty figuring out exam schedules and taking care of the everyday academic affairs. Thanks to the efforts put in by members, it was a very successful year.

Beta Sigma Kappa

The Beta Sigma Kappa International Optometric Honor Fraternity is an elite group of Optometrists and Optometry students who are dedicated to stimulating scientific and clinical excellence and high moral standards in the profession. BSK continued its strong involvement in tutoring first and second year students, and coordinating the national board review sessions. For the second year, they carried out two practice proficiencies for the ODIs with the help of the second and third year student bodies. As part of their academic goals, BSK again visited Polymer Technologies' contact lens manufacturing plant with Dr. Ron Watanabe, their faculty advisor.

Student Ethics Committee

The Student Ethics Committee is an organization dedicated to serving the professional and moral interests of optometric education by addressing matters of academic and professional misconduct as written in the Student Ethics Policy. As a liaison between the student body and the administration, the SEC also provides a collective voice representing student opinion in the areas of testing policies and procedures, and clinic rules and regulations as they pertain to ethical and moral issues.

Volunteer Optometric Service to Humanity - VOSH

by Matt Allen, President of VOSH

The 1995-96 VOSH/MASS organization completed another year with a great feeling of success. All those hours of lensometry, glasses-sorting, fundraising, and presentations paid off. The tabulated volunteer hours allowed the members of this organization to give their time and skill to deliver eye care to locals in the Boston area and to the needy people in Merida, Mexico. In Mexico, the group successfully performed up to 3000 individual eye exams. You could not come away from this trip without feeling a great sense of love and humanity in what you were doing. Our hosts, DIF, were the best. They furnished our living quarters, which were above any expectations we had, and made sure that our appetites were well taken care of with the best Mexican cuisine.

VOSH is done for another year, but the giving and sharing that has taken place will never be forgotten. If anyone has had the great opportunity to be involved in VOSH, they will tell you that this is what optometry is really all about: Helping to bring the World into Focus.

The students and optometrists involved in the annual trip to Merida, Mexico were as follows:

National Optometric Student Association - NOSA

by Brian Godines

NOSA represents a diverse group of people with some common feelings. One of the aims of the association is to increase the minority population in the field of optometry. Personally, I got involved with this club to take a step towards obliterating two of my pet peeves: ignorance and prejudice. As a group we met semi-weekly to discuss plans for fundraising (remember the pizza sales?), screenings, and other activities (i.e. the Christmas party). The membership of the association was at an all-time high during our second year, which is a positive reflection of our class.

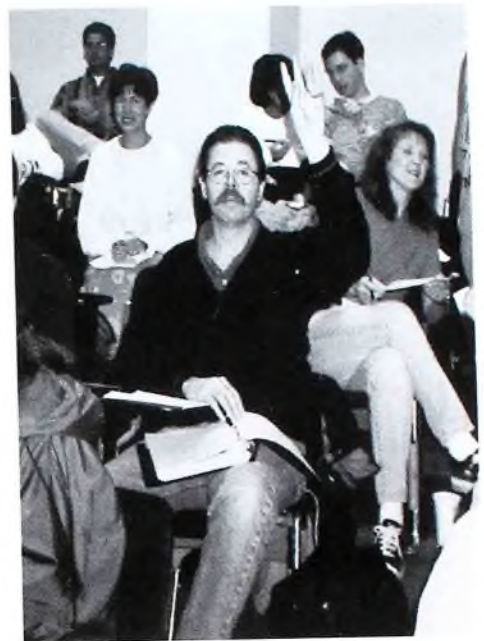

With the busy-ness of third year, the class representation in NOSA dwindled, but the spirit of the group remained in all of us. For those of you who still don't understand the nature of NOSA, here's a brief poem borrowed from my childhood which sums it up for me:

My dog is a plumber, he must be a boy.
Although I must tell you, his favorite toy,
Is a little play stove, with pans and with pots;
Which he really must love, 'cause he plays with it lots.

So perhaps he's a girl, which kind of makes sense,
Since he can't throw a ball and he can't climb a fence.
But neither can Dad, and I know he's a man;
And Mom is a woman, and she drives a van.

Maybe the problem is in trying to tell,
Just what someone is, by what he does well.

FROM THE EDITOR:

Dear Class of 1997,

Here it is.....(drumroll, please).....the AMAZING 1997 yearbook. During the process of begging, borrowing, and stealing pictures, I came to one startling revelation...second year was a big blur between proficiencies and boards, and no one had a social life. Putting together the yearbook was the experience of a lifetime (one I hope to never repeat). Many thanks to the rest of the staff: Kristen Boonie for typing, clicking, and dragging 'till she dropped, Mara Santos for harassing the class for copy, Irene Mestito for doing what she does best, always being in the right place at the right time with her camera, and to Jim Doyle, for doing the job no one else wanted, and getting this thing paid for! We hope the yearbook reminds you of the ups and downs, the trials and tribulations, moving in and moving out, Zorn days to Hatch days, all of which we've written down and captured on film for your enjoyment. We've seen some amazing changes while following the class from first to third year. Fashion-wise we've seen skirts and hairstyles go up and down. Personally, we've seen friendships and relationships evolve, and basically we've continued to grow up. Now it's time to go out in the real world (or postpone it by doing a residency), and show how much we have learned in these four years. And when the pressure gets to be too much for you, just look back at your good 'ol yearbook and pretend you're back in school (yea right)! Good luck to everyone.

Sincerely,
Alison Bailey, Editor-in-Chief

We would like to thank J.D. Sloan for his endsheet photos as well as some great shots of us in clinic.

Mom and Dad

Dear John,

Congratulations, we are all so proud of you...

The path you have traveled on to reach this special day of May 31, 1997 has been a long and difficult journey. Your hard work and dedication has enabled you to succeed and become the person you are today. Through the years we have watched you: we have watched you play ball with your friends, we have watched you learn to drive, we have watched you go away to college, and today, which is the proudest day of all, we have watched you receive your Doctorate of Optometry.

Congratulations, and may the footsteps you take along the path of life lead you to success and happiness always.

Love, Colleen, Pai, Māe, Lou, Lidia, Gloria, Anna

CONGRATULATIONS, MARA!

The future belongs to those who believe in the beauty of their dreams, the key to success is making dreams come true. I am so very proud of you!
