New England College of Optometry

President's Note

To the Class of 2006:

As you begin your professional lives of service to your patients, your communities, and to the public health, it is my privilege to extend to you the congratulations of the entire College. You are a direct extension of the combined knowledge and skills of a gifted faculty and staff who, while it may not always have been obvious during the stress of examinations and proficiencies, take great pride in your accomplishments and who enthusiastically welcome you as colleagues. Not only have you assimilated the vast store of information necessary to provide the very best care to your patients, but you have also demonstrated your commitment to the principles of professionalism that are essential to assuming the title of doctor. I am delighted that you are joining us in our noble mission to improve the vision, and the health, of the public.

As graduates of The New England College of Optometry, you carry on a tradition of 112 years of clinical excellence and service. Where once we primarily served New England, we now serve the world. You are especially well prepared to meet the challenges of bringing a higher standard of care to millions of underserved people across the globe and to improve their lives by giving the gift of sight. I am confident that you are up to that challenge.

Congratulations to you all.

Alan Laird Lewis, O.D., Ph.D.
President

CONGRATULATIONS!!!!

Now that we have come to the end of this leg of the journey called Optometry, it seems like only yesterday that we all descended nervously on this place called NEWENCO oops! NECO. With much trepidation and expectation we eagerly settled into our new environment and became acquainted with the upside down and reverse nature of everything optometry.

It has been an interesting journey filled with highs, lows and times of just "hanging in there". We hope that we have been able to highlight the excitement and memorable moments of our time at NECO.

Your hard work, dedication, tears, personal losses, great gains and sacrifices were well worth it. You are all winners and deserve to be DOCTORS OF OPTOMETRY.

As we move on to the next leg of this lifetime journey remember to keep integrity and good character at the forefront of your minds as you encounter tempting offers and challenges inherent in the Field of Optometry.

Congratulations are indeed in order to the Class of 2006!! You have done well. Your parents and loved ones are all very proud and happy today. To those who have lost loved ones along the way be assured that they would be beaming with pride today because of your great accomplishment.

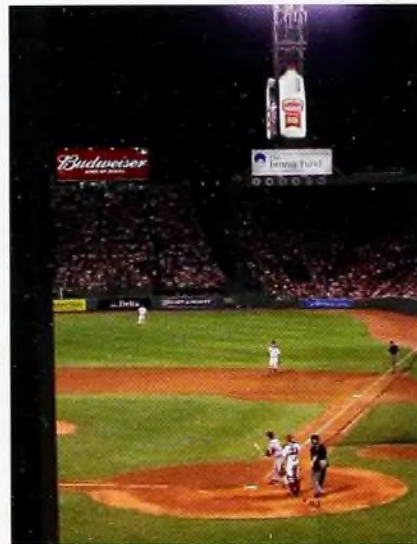

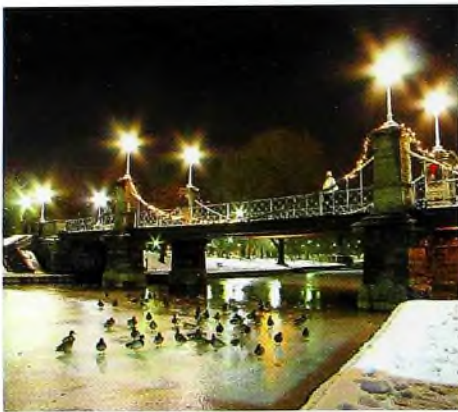

A big thank you and my sincere gratitude to the yearbook staff, Komal, Willette, Jazmin, Thao, Hung. You guys are the best!! You gave so much of yourself to this project. Thanks a million and God bless you always.

Now watch the Class of 2006 take on the world!!!!

VOSH 2005

Volunteer Optometric Services for Humanity

What an experience! We laughed, we cried, we made friends, we saw things we will probably never see again. We had our "VOSH moments." In March 2005, a group of 17 students, accompanied by Dr. Bina Patel, Dr. Karl Amon and Dr. Lauren Knott headed out for Barahona, a small city in the Dominican Republic, bordering Haiti. We saw 1300 patients in a 5 day time span.

During our travels to the clinics, we were guarded by the Dominican military.

No hay
Lentes
pequenos!

Barahona

In the poverty stricken areas surrounding Barahona, we dispensed hundreds of pairs of glasses daily. We experienced the ocular disease equivalent to a few chapters of Kanski.

Led by the power team of Andy, Jen and Karl, we headed over to the DR with smooth sailing.

Rotating within 4 different stations, all patients received full eye exams.

After hours, we showered away the layers of dirt, sweat, SPF and mosquito repellent and headed to the beach/pool with El Presidente, listening to bachata. what an experience!

Student Council

The Student Council governs the internal affairs of the student body. The Council consists of twenty-five voting members and is made up of the Executive Board; representatives from ODI, ODII, ODIII classes; the Accelerated OD and Advanced Standing International Programs; and officers from the American Optometric Student Association (AOSA), National Optometric Student Association (NOSA), Volunteer Optometric Services to Humanity (VOSH). The Council also meets periodically with school administrators to help set policy concerning student interests, and oversees the election of student representatives to administrative committees such as Curriculum, Student Affairs and Financial Aid.

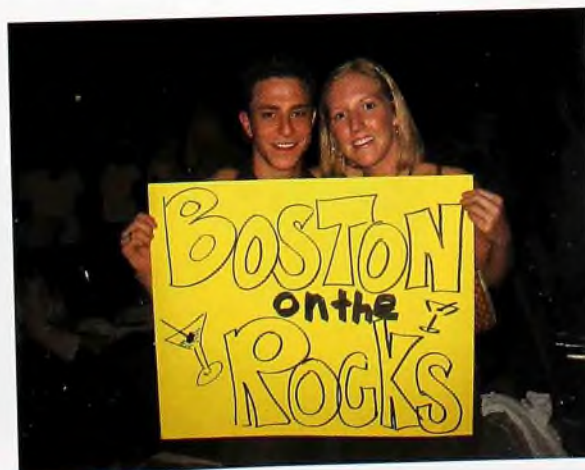

Class President: Sarah Hill, Class Vice President: Hung Thai, Class Representatives: Thao Vu, Jazmin Logendra, Willette King
Executive Council Board: President: Greg Ferrucci, Vice President: Michael Cooper, Treasurer: Crystal Klaahsen, Corresponding Secretary: Karl Malicdem, Recording Secretary: Romea Harris-Baxter

AOSA

The American Optometric Student Association (AOSA) is the international professional organization for optometric students. The AOSA is headed by an Executive Council and a Board of Trustees representing each school or college of optometry. Every student at the College automatically becomes a member of AOSA. The AOSA represents student interests to a variety of organizations including the National Board of Examiners in Optometry, International Association of the Board, Association of Schools and Colleges of Optometry and various sections of the American Optometric Association. The AOSA also sponsors the Annual Conference. The Conference, besides being a great time, affords students the opportunity to attend informative classes, become familiar with various products and manufacturers, and meet fellow students from other schools and colleges of optometry.

AAO

The major goal of the American Academy of Optometry is to maintain and enhance excellence in standards of optometric practice. It does this by fostering research and the dissemination of knowledge in both basic and applied vision science. Since its founding in 1922, the Academy's success in achieving this objective has moved it to the forefront of American and international optometry and made fellowship in the Academy a significant and cherished attainment for optometrists and vision scientists.

The Massachusetts Society of Optometrists is dedicated to the fulfillment of quality vision and eye care needs of all the public. To achieve this goal, the MSO seeks to unite all Massachusetts optometrists in their effort to practice the highest standard of care through support of continuing education and research. The MSO promotes full scope of practice by all Doctors of Optometry in fulfilling their goal as primary health care providers through public education as well as legislative, legal and other pursuits. The MSO is also dedicated to promoting the success of its members in professional life.

MSOS

FCO

The Fellowship of Christian Optometrists, International, Inc., founded in 1986, is a not-for-profit evangelical organization of Christian optometrists, optometry students, and allied ophthalmic personnel committed to world wide eye care missions and intraprofessional Christian fellowship.

The Performance Vision Club is designed to serve all patients in the community to improve their visual performance. PVC strives to promote, advance, and enhance the identity of optometry as a profession to inform the public of preventative measures to ensure proper eye safety and to reduce the risk of eye injury. A cornerstone of our organization is to provide many educational programs including academic, research, and screening opportunities in several diverse areas including sports vision and aviation vision. One of our chief goals is to be a gateway of information on the subject of Performance Vision to students, to medical professionals, and to the public.

Uhh. Uhh. Uhh.
 You ready R? Let's go streak 'em . . .
 Look at me! Bright, light!
 Streakin' on the right eye - with, motion!
 We doin' some retinoscopy - our, way!
 Eyes 20 inches away,
 At this distance, it's minus 2 for the WD
 Today, I got my Heine scope with me
 I'm streakin' the light,
 It's flashing so bright,
 For retinoscopy, it neutralizes with me
 OD's version of the dentist's drill
 Only time we ain't streakin' is when it's in the charging well
 Its batteries get tired
 But soon as the charge is over,
 It's right back to being my scoper
 Cuz my R-scope's the holdee, and I'm the holder
 Put us together, how they gonna stop both us?
 I got my lens rack, finding the neutralizing power
 When I'm off axis, the streak needs to be adjusted
 So let's, neutralize like it's suppose to be

For Charlotte,
When you were little we nicknamed you "Lottie who". Well honey, this is a label that fits because you have grown into a beautiful young woman named Lottie, who grabs life and lives it, Lottie, who gives so much to her family and friends, Lottie, who has worked so hard and deserves success and finally Lottie who will be a very fine doctor.
Do we sound proud of you? You bet!

Thao M. Vu

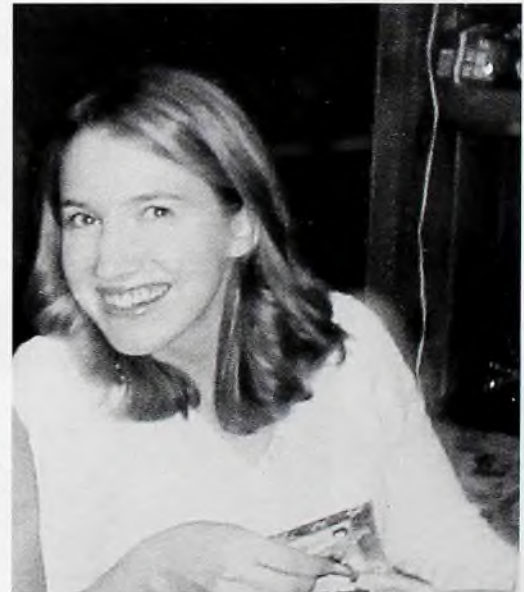

Congratulations Thao, it was always amusing to see how you struggled in easy classes such as gym and home economics, but you'd excel in academic subjects since elementary school. Also, it is hilarious how you to get lost going to the same eye doctor but manage to survive in Boston on your own for four years. Your hard work is well paid off. We are so darn proud of you, Thao!

Dear Karl,

Being our first nephew, we were honored by your birth. We place high hopes in you. We are not disappointed. We have been and will always be proud of you. Your dreams and your respect for people, young or old, has not been beyond par.

When your dad died, young as you were, you took the reign of the family with such honor and confidence. You are very supported of your mom and a good brother to your baby brother.

All our best in your graduation and for always. We love you and are proud of you! God bless dear!!!
